

Jackson Fisk

I am a seasoned safety professional with on-site industry experience since 2005. My experience on regulated worksites, starting from a front-line tradesperson and working himself up to safety management, has afforded me the opportunity to experience safety planning and implementation from numerous perspectives. Whether it is working in the field (ticketed scaffolder, multiple years of military service), operating as the safety coordinator, advisor, or manager (construction and heavy industrial), or consulting as a certified safety professional, I have the comprehensive experience to develop and implement safety solutions that meets the needs of a diverse set of clients. This led to the start of my company Goal Zero: The simple way to manage safety

My key role at Goal Zero is the management and administration of customer-facing solutions. I am driven and passionate about helping our clients achieve safety compliance through affordable safety programs and processes that suit the needs of their specific industries, within budgets available.

I have been involved with the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce Member Advisory Council for two years. The Member Advisory Council and the Chamber has opened my eyes to the wealth and resources it has to offer its members. I have a passion to help and give back to the chamber, the community and the companies in the region as they have supported our business and growth since day one of joining. Whether giving educational seminars, advocating for policy development, or sitting on the Board of directors if the members will have me. I will promise to uphold the ethical standards of my profession and representation of the members. Thank you for your consideration.
